

Mid-western Folks Lose Lives in Sea Plane

A determination to live up to the letter of his responsibility in caring for passengers is the reason sea pilot Robert Moore lives to tell of a thrilling 56-hour struggle in the gulf stream off the Florida coast, in which five pleasure seekers from mid-western states lost their lives.

Mr. and Mrs. August Bulte, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith of Kansas City, and Mrs. J. S. Dickson of Memphis were those lost after a heroic effort against waves, storm and exposure.

They were passengers on the sea-plane "Miss Miami" which made 40-minute trips between Miami, Fla., and Bimini, West India Island.

When within three minutes of their destination on Wednesday, a pro-

Robert Moore, pilot

pellor blade broke, forcing the sea-plane down. The craft landed within a mile of a fishing boat, but, caught in the gulf stream, it was carried north, signals for help being unheeded. One of the sea-plane's pontoons sprang a leak, and in the heavy sea the plane was overturned. The passengers were thrown into the sea. Moore succeeded in getting Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Bulte back on top of the wreckage, but Mrs. Dickson and Mr. Bulte were lost. Then started the battle against wave and a storm which came in the night. The two women died from exposure. Smith died on Thursday, Moore was found Friday by a passing fishing boat, strapped to the wreckage, and unconscious.

New Long Life Suits

The tailleur is the suit of the hour—slender, straight, long of line, strictly tailored—decidedly an American fashion and the one in which the American woman looks her very best.

But a tailleur must be really tailored, for tailoring is the "life" of a suit. Look for narrow shoulders, for tapering sleeves, for flat, well-turned collars, for slender skirts, for that perfection of contour which indicates hand-shaping—you'll find just such here.

A Three-Piece Costume for Easter

The Frock With Matching Coat or Cape

Unity is the key to elegance in dress and this Spring's fashions reveal the three-piece costume, a unity in itself, in harmony with all daytime or sports occasions, with its wearer and its surroundings.

Women's Extra Size Suits

Suits in specialized models that give women of large proportions the smartness of the slender figure—suits, too, in which one is always comfortable, because of their simplicity, their style and general good taste.

These suits embrace workmanship of the high est order, insuring satisfactory service. Silk stitching and tailored piping is used as trimming and coats are lined with silk. Tricotines and twills are shown in navy and black—tweeds in glorious colors that every woman loves.

Whether it be a tailleur or sport, a stout or slender model, you may be assured the price is most reasonable and much less than in past seasons if purchased here.
